

The “Who I Am” Public Service Announcement Transcript of :60 Version

I’m five foot eleven.

Barely five four.

I weigh about a hundred and seventy pounds.

Brown eyes.

Blue eyes.

Brown hair.

Gray hair.

I’m a baseball fanatic.

I’m a wife.

A mom.

A sister.

And a grandfather.

I’m a bodybuilder.

I’m a research analyst.

Small business owner.

Teacher.

Dance fitness instructor.

Film and television actor.

I’m an office clerk.

I’m a copywriter.

I'm a veteran.

I have a prosthetic leg.

I have multiple sclerosis.

I have lupus.

Cerebral palsy.

Post-traumatic stress disorder.

I'm blind.

And I'm working in a job I love.

I love.

Because I was given a chance.

Because I was given a chance.

To contribute my skills and talents.

To show my disability is only one part of who I am.

Who I am.

Who I am.

At work, it's what people CAN do that matters.

For more information, visit WhatCanYouDoCampaign.org.